

ICELAND 2002

1. Overview of the system

Iceland has an insurance-based unemployment benefit system. Financial assistance is available for those without other resources. Two kinds of housing benefit programmes are in existence. There is a rent benefit for tenants with low income. Mortgage interest benefits are open to house owners. Means tested family benefits are available to parents. The social security administration provides benefits for lone parents providing for two children or more. Married people are taxed individually. The 2002 AW level is ISK 3 144 000.

2. Unemployment insurance

2.1 Conditions for receipt

To be aged between 16 and 70 years old, willing and available to work and to be able to confirm the unemployed status by means of a letter from the labour exchange. Applicants must have worked at least 10 weeks in a full time job to qualify for any benefits. The qualifying period for part-timers lengthens proportionally. They must have been registered unemployed for at least three days, but receive benefits from the first day. In order to qualify for full benefits, applicants must have worked for the last 12 months in a full time job.

2.1.1 Employment conditions

10 weeks of insured employment to qualify for full benefits. Applicants must have worked for the last 12 months to qualify for full benefits.

2.1.2 Contribution conditions

Coincide with the employment conditions.

2.2 Calculation of benefit amount

2.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Benefits are paid in proportion to the number of hours worked in insured employment in the previous 12 months:

- Full benefit of ISK 3 404 per day (5 days per week) is paid to those who have worked for 2 080 hours or more (average of 40 hours per week).

- For those who have worked for between 400 and 2 080 hours, there is a scale defined with 76 steps, from 25 per cent to 100 per cent of the benefit rate, each step representing 1 per cent of the full benefit.
- And minimum benefit of ISK 851 per day is paid to those who have worked for 400 hours of work (25 per cent of full benefit).

There is also a family supplement of ISK 136 per day (4 per cent of full benefits) per dependent child under 18 years old.

2.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

None; there is no income test. If a recipient has occasional employment for one or two days at a time, benefit is reduced in proportion to the number of hours worked.

2.3 Tax treatment of benefit

Benefits are subject to general income taxation.

2.4 Benefit duration

Benefits are paid for a maximum of 5 years.

2.5 Treatment of particular groups

2.5.1 Young persons

None.

2.5.2 Older workers

None.

3. Unemployment assistance

None.

4. Social assistance

It is a last resort financial assistance, administered by local governments.

4.1 Conditions for receipt

To be aged 18 or over.

4.2 Calculation of benefit amount

4.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Financial assistance is the difference between the needs (the applicable amount) and the claiming household's resources. The applicable amount for the capital, Reykjavik, is shown below. Note that rates differ regionally.

Size of household	Applicable amount: recommended minimum monthly rate (in ISK)
Single persons	67 000
Couples	120 000

There are no allowances for dependent children. The resources include all gross family income. Excluded are income of children and all benefits paid in respect of children such as child support and family benefits, and rent benefits. Unemployed youth aged 18-24 living with low-income parents are entitled to up to half assistance. In addition there are available grants/loans to receivers of assistance to meet various expenses, such as funeral costs, dental bills, etc.

4.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

There are no disregards; there is a one-to-one means test including all gross family income.

4.3 Tax treatment of benefit

Generally subject to general income taxation.

4.4 Benefit duration

Unlimited.

4.5 Treatment of particular groups

None.

5. Housing benefits

There are two schemes for housing benefits, one for tenants and one for home owners.. A) Home owners can receive interest rebates to offset their mortgage payments. B) Rent benefits are available to households renting accommodations as long as no household member owns any other real estate. The Central government finances the rent benefits partially but local authorities administer the benefits. The cost of mortgage interest rebate is borne by central government.

5.1 Conditions for receipt

Rent benefits are available to tenants with a certified rental agreement of at least 6 months duration. In addition the rented accommodation must be a self-contained unit, such that e.g. rooms in dormitories on campus are excluded. Rent benefits are means-tested. Due to the low income disregard and steep income testing the rent benefits are targeted to low income tenants.

Mortgage interest rebate is open to all home owners with mortgage payments.

5.2 Calculation of benefit amount

5.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Rent benefit. There is a fixed amount per claiming household of ISK 8 000 per month, with additional ISK 7 000 per month if there is one dependent child, plus ISK 6 000 per month for a second child, plus ISK 5 500 per month for the third and additional children. The benefit also takes into account the rent payments, in such a way that 15 per cent of the rent above ISK 20 000 and below ISK 50 000 are added. However, rent benefits can never be higher than ISK 31 000 per month or half of paid rent, whichever is lower. 1 per cent of the household's previous year taxable income in excess of ISK 2 000 000 is deducted. 25 per cent of the household's net wealth exceeding ISK 3 630 099 is counted as income in this respect. For the purposes of this study, the persons are assumed to have been working at the same earning level, and full time, in the previous year.

Mortgage interest rebate. This programme is in effect a part of the tax system, and replaced deductibility of interest payment a long time ago. The rebate is based on paid interest, subject to a maximum of ISK 468 655 for a single person with no dependent children, ISK 615 245 for lone parents and ISK 761 832 for a couple. The interest payments are also subject to a maximum of 7 per cent of outstanding mortgage. From this amount is deducted 6 per cent of taxable income. Net wealth exceeding ISK 3 525 022 for singles and ISK 5 843 331 for a couple can further limit the rebate. The rebate depends thus basically on the size of the mortgage relative to taxable income and net wealth.

Note that the interest rebate is based on paid interest and income in the year 2002 but is not paid out until 2003.

5.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

Full rent benefits are paid to families with combined annual income of up to ISK 2 million. 1 per cent of income in excess of this threshold would be deducted from benefits.

5.3 Tax treatment of benefit

Rent benefit. Not taxed.

Mortgage interest rebate. Not taxed. Administered and paid through tax authorities.

5.4 Treatment of particular groups

5.4.1 Young persons

None.

5.4.2 Older workers

None.

6. Family benefits

6.1 Conditions for receipt

To have a dependent child under 16.

6.2 Calculation of benefit amount

10. Tax system

Iceland has proportional tax rates on personal income for central and local government taxes. A tax is levied on net wealth. Capital income is taxed separately, at a rate of 10 per cent.

10.1 Income tax rate schedule

General income tax rate is 38.54 per cent. Annual income above ISK 3 980 000 for single persons and ISK 7 960 000 for couples are taxed additionally at a rate of 7 per cent.

10.1.1 Tax allowances and credits

- The employee's compulsory and voluntary contribution to pension funds, up to 8 per cent of earnings is deductible.
- Work related expenses: earnings related transportation costs (net of fringe benefits) are deductible up to a certain limit.

- There is a basic tax credit of ISK 312 024 per earner; married couples may utilise up to 95 per cent of spouses' unutilised portion of his/her credit.¹ The credit is subtracted from central and local government taxes; unused portions are not refundable. Seamen enjoy an additional tax credit, calculated per diem for number of days at sea.

10.1.2 The definition of taxable income

Category A comprises wages and salaries, including presumptive employment income of the self-employed (see below), employment-related benefits, old-age pensions, social security payments, grants, payments to copyright holders, royalties, etc. Category B comprises income from a business and income from an independent economic activity. Category C comprises investment income such as dividends, interest and capital gains. Income in category C is taxed at a flat 10 per cent rate with no tax credit.

Individual gross earnings minus allowances.

10.1.3 The tax schedule

- Central government: 25.75 per cent of taxable income.
- Local government (average rate): 12.79 per cent of total gross income (before allowances).

10.2 Treatment of family income

The tax unit is the individual. Unearned income of married couples is taxed jointly.

10.3 Social security contribution schedule

Employees pay a fee to the Construction Fund for the Elderly at a fixed annual amount of ISK 5 440 if annual taxable income is above ISK 809 611. Those 70 years or older are exempt as well as old age pensioners or invalids residing in old age, nursing homes or in special care.

Pension funds: The employer's contribution is at least 6 per cent of the employees' wages/salaries directly to the pension fund. The employee pays a contribution of 4 per cent which is deducted from these wages. The employee deducts the 4 per cent from income prior to taxation. This is applicable for the unemployed as well as for wage earners but not for people on other welfare.

In addition, employees can contribute up to 4 per cent of their income to a voluntary private pension fund and this contribution is also tax exempt. If an employee chooses to take this option the employer will match the employees contribution by up to 2 per cent of the employee's wages. The government will also contribute up to 0.4 per cent.

11. Part-time work

11.1 Special benefit rules for part-time work

Benefits are paid proportional to the time spent in paid employment.

1. In the case of a married couple on social assistance, it is not one person receiving benefits but both of them and they, therefore, each have a full tax credit.

11.2 Special tax and social security contribution rules for part-time work

None.

12. Policy developments

12.1 Policy changes introduced in the last year

Effective from 1 January 2002 rent benefits are not subjected to income taxation.
