Introduction

Tax-benefit policy “country chapters” are made available as part of the OECD series Benefits and Wages. They provide detailed descriptions of tax and benefit rules in a consistent format across countries and summarize recent policy changes.

Country chapters for other countries and years are available on the Internet at <http://www.oecd.org/social/benefits-and-wages.htm>

1. Overview of the tax-benefit system

The tax and fees system in Latvia consists of state taxes, state fees, local government fees, directly applicable taxes and other obligatory payments set in European Union regulatory enactments and social insurance contributions.

There exists a three-tier system of social benefits in Latvia:

- 1) state social insurance benefits which are earnings related and based on social insurance contributions;
- 2) state social benefits which are flat-rated and with universal coverage of population;
- 3) means-tested and non means-tested benefits provided by local governments within the municipal social assistance system.

State social insurance benefits guarantee a person a certain substitute for income in the event of social risk and are provided only for socially insured people. Individuals are insured and social insurance contribution payments are made in respect of those social risks that may actually affect them. Social insurance contributions guarantee security to person in case of old-age, death, unemployment, disability, maternity (paternity), child care (parental benefit), sickness, accidents at work and occupational diseases.

State social benefits provide universal state support in the form of cash payments for certain groups of the population in cases related to the arising of additional expenditures, in which the social insurance system does not provide for security (for example, family benefit, child care benefit and child birth allowance, state social security benefit, that provides security in case of loss a parent etc.).

There is a social assistance scheme which guarantees a minimum income for every inhabitant of the country, as also provides housing benefit and other means-tested benefits in special cases as a last safety net.

As concerns social benefits, only pensions (old-age pension, long service pension, disability pension, survivor's pension) and sickness benefit are taxable.

1.1. Average Worker wage (AW)

The 2015 AW earnings level is EUR 9588¹.

¹ Latvia replaced its previous currency, Lats, with the Euro on 1st January 2014. AW refers to the Average Wage estimated by the Centre for Tax Policy and Administration (www.oecd.org/ctp). For more information on methodology see Taxing Wages 2009-2010, OECD, 2011, part 4, sections 2 and 3.

2. Unemployment insurance

The operation of the unemployment insurance system in Latvia is regulated by the Law on Unemployment Insurance, adopted by the Saeima² on 25th November 1999 (became effective on 1st January 2000), - which was elaborated on the basis of previous Law on Compulsory Social Insurance against Unemployment, enacted by the Saeima on 5th October 1995 (in force since 1st January 1997) – for improvement of the state social insurance scheme relating to unemployment.

The purposes of the Law are as follows:

- to ensure income substitution in the event of unemployment;
- to ensure the amount of the unemployment benefit in proportion to the individual contribution wage, the insurance period and the length of the time during which the benefit is received;
- to stimulate the unemployed person to seek job actively, to improve existing qualification and to undergo retraining.

The Law on Unemployment Insurance provides passive unemployment insurance services (unemployment benefit in cash; funeral benefit in case of the demise of the unemployed). The granting and payment of unemployment benefits and funeral benefits ensures the State Social Insurance Agency. Passive unemployment insurance services determined by the Law on Unemployment Insurance are financed by the state social insurance special employment budget. Part of active employment activities is also funded by Special Employment Budget set forth under the Support for Unemployed Persons and Persons Seeking Employment Law, however within the amount not exceeding 10% of the total Special Employment Budget determined by the Law on Annual Budget, which determines a particular amount of Special Employment Budget for financing of active employment activities.

The entitlement to unemployment benefit is linked to the status of unemployed person, granted and monitored by public employment service (State Employment Agency) in accordance with the Support for unemployed persons and persons seeking employment law.

2.1 Conditions for receipt

Persons who have obtained the status of unemployed person in accordance with the Support for unemployed persons and persons seeking employment law and who also have unemployment insurance are entitled to unemployment benefits.

Persons who are not citizens or non-citizens of Latvia, who are not permanent residents of Latvia or who have not received a temporary residence permit and also are not spouses of Latvian citizens, non-citizens or permanent residents of Latvia have rights to get unemployment benefit in accordance with the Council Regulation (EEC) No 883/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29th April 2004 on the coordination of social security systems.

Unemployment benefit is granted to an unemployed person who has registered as unemployed, whose length of period of insurance is not less than one year and for whom mandatory social insurance contributions for the case of unemployment have been made on his/her behalf within a period of not less than 9 months within the last preceding 12 months before obtaining of the status of unemployed.

Eligibility for unemployment benefit doesn't depend on whether the job loss is "voluntary" or not. But voluntarily dismissal affects the granting procedure of unemployment benefit. If a person has become an unemployed after the termination of work or service on the basis of his or her notice (voluntary) or due to a violation, the unemployment benefit shall be granted not earlier than two months after the day when the status of an unemployed person was obtained. Two months waiting period has been introduced in order to motivate people to retain their jobs and not to violate labour contracts and working regulations.

In order to become (and remain) entitled to the unemployment benefit it is necessary to obtain (and retain) an unemployed status. A person has the rights to unemployed status if the person is actively seeking employment. In accordance with the Support for Unemployed Persons and Persons Seeking Employment Law unemployed persons have a duty to:

- actively seek employment independently and with the assistance of the State Employment Agency and after the acquisition of the unemployed person status to provide without delay proposals to the State Employment Agency for the development of an individual employment seeking plan;
- on the day specified in the individual job seeking plan to attend the State Employment Agency and present the documents specified in regulatory enactments;
- attend the State Employment Agency within a time period of three days from the day of receipt of an invitation;
- participate in measures provided for in the individual job seeking plan.

2.1.1 Employment conditions

Persons who have obtained an unemployed status in accordance with the Support for Unemployed Persons and Persons Seeking Employment Law are entitled to unemployment benefits.

A person has the right to the unemployment status after registration with the State Employment Agency if:

- 1) does not work (is not considered to be an employee or a self-employed person in accordance with the Law On State Social Insurance);
- 2) is seeking employment;
- 3) is able to work and ready to enter into labour legal relations immediately;
- 4) has reached 15 years of age;
- 5) has not reached the age necessary for the granting state old age pension or state old age pension has not been granted prematurely;
- 6) is not acquiring an education at a general secondary or vocational secondary education institution, excluding evening schools;
- 7) does not perform commercial activities or his or her commercial activities have been suspended in accordance with regulatory enactments;
- 8) is not completely State supported.

The person for whom invalidity has been determined shall also be considered to be able to work except in cases where the Medical Commission for Expert-Examination of Health and Working Ability has determined a loss of work capacity of 100 per cent.

If a person on the day of registration has a temporary illness, the State Employment Agency shall grant such person the unemployed person status after the end of the temporary illness.

The basis for the loss of unemployment status shall be:

- 1) the acquisition of status of the employee or self-employed person for an indefinite period of time or for a time period longer than two months in accordance with the Law On State Social Insurance, except engaging in the active employment measures;

- 2) reaching the age necessary for the granting of the State old age pension, receipt of a service pension or State special pension, prematurely granting of State old age pension;
- 3) coming under complete State support;
- 4) commencing the acquisition of education by being present at a general secondary or vocational secondary education institution, excluding evening school;
- 5) refusal of an appropriate job offer of employment twice;
- 6) failure to fulfil the duties of an unemployed person without a justified reason;
- 7) provision of false information in order to acquire and retain unemployment status;
- 8) moving for permanent residence outside the European Union if not specified otherwise in international agreements binding upon Latvia;
- 9) the loss of work ability of 100 per cent;
- 10) renewal of employment through a court judgment;
- 11) death of the unemployed person.
- 12) waiver of unemployed person status by submitting a relevant notification to the State Employment Agency.

Unemployment benefit is granted as of the day the unemployed filed all the documents, showing the right for the benefit (including statement from the State Employment Agency about granting of unemployment status).

The unemployment benefit for a person, who has become unemployed after terminating employment voluntarily or due to a violation, is to be granted not earlier than two months as of the day of obtaining of the unemployed status. The main purpose of this was to prevent voluntarily dismissals of employed persons by the prolongation of the period after which unemployment benefit is granted.

Unemployed person loses his/her entitlement to unemployment insurance benefit, if he/she starts working again, even if it is only for an hour per week.

However, according to the Law On Unemployment Insurance the disbursement of unemployment benefit shall be suspended if an unemployed person obtains the status of an employee in accordance with the Law On State Social Insurance for a time period of up to two months (inclusive). So if person (after getting the unemployment benefit) works less than two months, the unemployment insurance period is prolonged for respective period.

2.1.2 Contribution conditions

Unemployment benefit is granted to an unemployed person who has registered as unemployed, whose length of period of insurance is not less than one year and for whom mandatory social insurance contributions for the case of unemployment have been made on his/her behalf within a period of not less than 9 months within the last preceding 12 months before obtaining of the status of unemployed.

If within the last preceding 12 months before obtaining of the status of unemployed the contributions for the case of unemployment are made on behalf of the unemployed for the period of less than 9 months, and also for the period after obtaining of the status of unemployed, then unemployment benefits are determined on the basis of the contributions made during the preceding 12 months before the day when unemployment benefit is requested.

If within a period of the last preceding 12 months before obtaining of the status of unemployed contributions for the case of unemployment are not made on behalf of unemployed, or are made for the period of less than 9 months, the unemployed is entitled to the unemployment benefits provided, in the respective period, the unemployed was within the category of the following persons:

Reference date for all information is July 1st 2015

Country chapter for OECD series Benefits and Wages
(www.oecd.org/els/social/workincentives)

- 1) regained work ability after disability;
- 2) taken care of a disabled minor aged below 18.

In 2015 the amount of social insurance contributions covering unemployment insurance is 2.10% on the total social insurance contributions made. The total rate of compulsory social insurance contributions if the employee is insured for all social insurance types is 34.09%.

Insurance period, entitling for the unemployment benefits is comprised of the following:

- 1) the period for which the contributions for the case of unemployment are made in accordance with the Law On State Social Insurance (the Law On State Social Insurance came into force on 1st January, 1998);
- 2) the periods of work or equal to work accrued until 1st January, 1991;
- 3) the periods of work accrued from 1st January, 1991 until 1 January, 1996, for which the social tax payments are made;
- 4) the periods for which the social tax payments are made for the period from 1st January, 1996 until 31st December, 1997 made in accordance with the law On Social Tax.

The average insurance contributions wage (incomes from which state social insurance contributions are made) for determining unemployment benefit is calculated from the person's insurance contributions wage for a 12 month period, such period ending two calendar months prior to the month in which the person became unemployed.

2.2 Calculation of benefit amount

For the unemployed, who until the day of obtaining of the status of the unemployed was an employee, the benefit amount is determined in proportion to the insurance period, and his/her income, from which unemployment contributions are made in accordance with the Law On State Social Insurance:

- 1) with an insurance period from one to nine years (inclusive): within the amount of 50% from average insurance contribution wage;
- 2) with an insurance period from ten to nineteen years (inclusive): within the amount of 55% from average insurance contribution wage;
- 3) with an insurance period from twenty to twenty-nine years (inclusive): within the amount of 60% from average insurance contribution wage;
- 4) with an insurance period above thirty years (inclusive): within the amount of 65% from average insurance contribution wage.

For the unemployed on behalf of which before the day of obtaining of the status of the unemployed the contributions for the case of unemployment are made from the state basic budget, and for the unemployed who regained work ability after disability or who has taken care for the disabled minor aged below 18, the benefit is determined within the amount of 60% of the state social security benefit double amount being in force as of the day of requesting an unemployment benefit (the actual amount of state social security benefit is 64.03 EUR per month).

For an unemployed person for whom the benefit claimant himself or herself and his or her employer had made unemployment insurance contributions for a part of the contributions period prior to the day when the status of an unemployed person was obtained, but for the other part – the State, the amount of the unemployment benefits to be granted shall be determined in proportion to length of period of insurance and depending on the average wage subject to insurance contributions.

If an unemployed person at the end of the contributions period did not have the employee status and before the day of obtaining of the status of the unemployed the contributions for the case of unemployment are made from the state special social insurance budget, the amount of the unemployment benefits to be granted shall be determined:

- 1) in proportion to length of period of insurance and depending on the average wage subject to insurance contributions, if insurance contributions were made from sickness or maternity benefit;
- 2) within the amount of 60 % of the state social security benefit double amount being in force as of the day of requesting an unemployment benefit, if insurance contributions were made for recipients of parental benefit.

For an unemployed person for whom both, the benefit claimant himself or herself and his or her employer and the state, had concurrently made unemployment insurance contributions prior to the day when the status of an unemployed person was obtained, the unemployment benefits shall be granted in proportion to length of period of insurance and depending on the average wage subject to insurance contributions.

The maximum unemployment benefit payment period is 9 months.

The unemployment benefit shall be disbursed in the following amount depending on duration of the unemployment:

- first 3 months of unemployment: 100% of the set benefit,
- from 4-6 months of unemployment: 75% of the set benefit,
- from 7-9 months of unemployment: 50% of the set benefit.

The unemployment benefit decreases over time in order to motivate every unemployed person and especially those who receive low benefit amounts to return to the labour market a.s.a.p.

In order to prevent the payment of unemployment benefits with unreasonably high amounts in accordance with amendments adopted in 22nd December 2009 to the Regulations of the Cabinet of Ministers No 866 "Procedures for Calculation of Average Wage Subject to Insurance Contributions for Determination of Amount of Unemployment Benefit and Procedures for Granting, Calculation and Payment of Unemployment Benefit and Funeral Benefit" 21/10/2008, for person which became unemployed after 1st January 2010 and whose insurance contributions wage within relevant 12 months period has different amounts, in the calculation period of average insurance contributions wage doesn't include two months when the person had the highest and the lowest contributions wage.

In the period from 1st January to 1st July of 2015 the average amount of unemployment benefit was 217.23 EUR.

The amount of an unemployment allowance (stipend) during training is 99.60 EUR for each calendar month - an allowance for an incomplete calendar month of the training is calculated in proportion to the number of calendar days during the training. The amount is calculated and disbursed by the educational establishment carrying out the training on the basis of the agreement of the State Employment Agency and the educational establishment. The unemployment allowance shall be disbursed once in a calendar month during training. The allowance shall also be disbursed for the time period, when the training is not attended due to a justifiable reason and the unemployed person has submitted a document proving this. The State Employment Agency shall, on the basis of the report submitted by the educational establishment, transfer the funds necessary for the disbursement of allowances to the educational establishment.

2.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Unemployment benefit is earnings related benefit, the benefit amount depends on persons' social insurance contributions wage. Average amounts of unemployment benefit by length of the insurance period were:

Insurance Record	% of average social insurance contributions wage	average benefit amount in EUR (from 1 January to 1 July, 2015)
insurance record from 1 to 9 years	50%	196.79
insurance record from 10 to 19 years	55%	252.69
insurance record from 20 to 29 years	60%	240.46
Insurance record above 30 years	65%	265.66

2.2.2 Income and earnings disregards for benefit recipients and those starting a new job

No disregards.

2.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

Non-taxable.

One can not receive the parental benefit and unemployment benefit at the same time. Payment of the parental benefit is suspended for the duration of the unemployment benefit.

Payment of the unemployment benefit is suspended for the duration of the sickness benefit.

2.4 Benefit duration and waiting periods

Duration of payment of unemployment benefit is 9 months.

If within the period of 12 months a person is being repeatedly granted unemployment benefit, it shall be granted, taking into account the duration (in calendar days) of the receipt of the preceding unemployment benefit granted and percentage differentiation of amount in such period.

The disbursement of unemployment benefit shall be suspended if an unemployed person:

- enters into a contract of employment regarding paid temporary performance of public works or enters into a contract of employment regarding participation in other active employment measures specified in the Support for Unemployed Persons and Persons Seeking Employment Law;
- obtains the status of an employee in accordance with the Law On State Social Insurance for a time period of up to two months (inclusive);
- receives the sickness benefit in accordance with the Law On Maternity and Sickness Insurance'.

The time period when the disbursement of unemployment benefits is suspended shall not be included in the time period for what benefit is granted.

The disbursement of unemployment benefits shall be discontinued if a person loses the status of an unemployed person, the State Agency of Social Insurance states, that person received unemployment benefit unlawfully, or if person was died.

In most cases the unemployment benefit is repeatedly granted, if disbursement of preceding unemployment benefit had been discontinued and a person lost the status of an unemployed person due to temporary work (obtained the employee status for a time period more than two months) and after loss of temporary work has reapplied for unemployment benefit.

After expiration of the disbursement term of unemployment benefit a person can pretend on next unemployment benefit only after unemployment insurance contributions have been made for not less than 9 months in time period of 12 months.

There is no waiting period for unemployment benefit. Unemployment benefits shall be granted from the day when an unemployed person has submitted all the documents, which certify the right to the benefit. Only to a person who has become an unemployed person after the termination of work or service on the basis of his or her notice or due to a violation benefits shall be granted not earlier than two months after the day when the status of an unemployed person was obtained.

Changes from 01.12.2009

Municipalities have an obligation of granting other benefits on the basis of means-test and for aims related to people's basic needs.

4.2 Calculation of benefit amount

4.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

4.2.1.1. GMI

GMI benefit is calculated as a difference between GMI level (49.80 EUR per month) and households or separately living person's income. Calculation of the benefit does not involve application of the equivalence scale – the calculated GMI benefit is equal to all adults and children in the household.

Amount of GMI benefit = GMI x m - household income

GMI – GMI level

m – number of persons in household

The local municipalities are eligible to determine the level of GMI for varied social groups, for example: children, persons receiving old-age pension or disability pension but not lower than 49.80 EUR and not exceeding 128.06 EUR per month. For calculations, rates for Riga are used (see section 4.5.1. below).

Amount of GMI benefit = (GMI¹ x n¹ + GMI² x n² + GMI³ x n³ - household income)

GMI¹ – GMI level for adults in the household

n¹ - number of adults in the household

GMI² – GMI level for children or another social group

n² - number of children or another social group in the household

GMI³ – GMI level for old-age pension receivers or another social group

n³ - number of old-age pension receivers or another social groups in the household

Maximum amount GMI benefit per month:

For separately living person	For Household
49.80 EUR – 128.06 EUR	Since December, 2009 there is not set a limit for the maximum amount for household

In cases of refusing to fulfil duties of participation a total amount of GMI benefit reduces by part of adult who has refused.

4.2.1.2. Housing benefit

Established by local municipality's regulation (see Section 5).

4.2.1.3 Benefit in an emergency situation

According to type of emergency situation and depends on decision of local municipality.

4.2.1.4. Other benefits

Established by local municipality's regulation.

4.2.1.4 Irregular additional payments

4.2.1.5 Obligations of family members

4.2.2 Income and earnings disregards for benefit recipients and those starting a new job

See Section 4.1

4.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

Non-taxable.

4.4 Benefit duration and waiting periods

4.4.1. GMI benefit

After this period the situation of family (person) can be re-evaluated and needy status can be granted repeatedly. Also, if during the period when family (person) has obtained a needy family (person) status there have taken place changes in the family structure, income level or social status, a social service office has to make evaluation repeatedly. The decision on the assignment of needy status and GMI benefit granting shall be taken by the social service office within one month.

Needy family status and GMI benefit has been granted to family for a period of one month, if family's income level complies with the level defined by legislation, but other criteria doesn't complies.

5. Housing benefits for rented accommodation

The autonomous functions of local governments include provision of assistance to residents in resolving housing related issues. Local municipalities have a duty to provide housing benefit to ensure material support for families or separately living persons with low- income to pay rent and public utilities. According to Law on Social Services and Social Assistance a housing benefit is the second mandatory benefit that shall be paid to a person or a family of the relevant local municipality. Housing benefit is paid from the municipal budget.

Housing costs and rules defining whether a family or a person is eligible to receive the benefit vary by municipality. Housing benefit can be calculated in the following way: the first way - when the housing cost allocation and expenses have been defined by municipality, or the second - using a fixed sum of benefit for person or household. In some municipalities, e.g., the capital Riga, benefit is calculated in both ways. In case of housing debts tripartite agreement is concluded among client, dwelling-house manager and Social service of Riga, and municipality has a right to grant an increased amount of housing benefit to state pension recipients, recipients of state social security benefit and families with under-aged children.

Housing benefits are granted and paid by Social service of municipality at the place of residence declared by the claimant and that is the place where claimant is actually living. The rights to housing benefits are entitled to households or separately living persons (assistance claimant) being unable to meet basic needs. According to the Law on Social Services and Social Assistance, dwelling is one of the basic needs.

Overview of housing benefits (for greater detail refer to Chapter 5):

Regular housing benefits	Program name (local name)		Housing benefit (Dzīvokļa pabalsts)
	Entitlement depends on	Household type/size	Yes
		Income	Yes, except for children orphans
		Dwelling size	No
		Geographic location	No
		Actual rental cost	Yes
	Description of regular housing benefit		In some municipalities, benefit is estimated as difference between the social assistance level plus living space consumption costs and public utility service costs minus net income of claimant; In other municipalities a fixed amount benefit is stated.
	Uprating mechanism of the benefit		Not specified
	Housing related support through other benefits		--

5.1 Conditions for receipt

Conditions of receipt are established by local municipality's regulation. Housing benefit is an income-tested benefit.

5.2 Calculation of benefit amount

5.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Housing benefit in Riga municipality is estimated as a difference between the GMI level set by Riga municipality (GMI*) for assistance claimant and the amount of consumption standards of living space and public utility service and total income of the assistance claimant:

$$P = \text{GMI}^* + K - I$$

P – amount of housing benefit;

GMI* – level of guaranteed minimum income set by Riga municipality for the assistance claimant;

K – consumption standards of living space and public utility service (limit for actual costs);

I – income of assistance claimants (including the benefit received in the respective month to ensure the GMI level). The income of claimant must not exceed 355.72 EUR per month for separately living age or disability pensioner and 284.57 EUR per month per person in household.

For example in Riga "K" is comprised of housing benefit expenditure items (e.g., heating, water, electricity, etc.) and average consumption standard per person in the household according by price list which are stated by municipal regulations.

In some of municipalities housing benefit is calculated and paid each month. In 2014, the average housing benefit paid to person was at the amount of 12.75 EUR per month or 152.94 EUR in a year (in 2013, 12.28 EUR per month or 147.41 EUR in a year).

In some of municipalities the amount of housing benefit depends on the household type and type of dwelling, in other municipalities - certain constant amount per year is defined.

Composition of consumption expenditures by number of persons, 2014

(Average per household member per month, EUR)

	Households
	1 person	2 persons	3 persons	4 persons	5 and more persons
Consumption expenditure - TOTAL	374.79	346.03	299.10	257.98	201.17
Housing, water, electricity, gas and other fuels	84.83	57.37	44.36	33.76	25.63

(Data source: Central Statistical Bureau)

For instance, for a single person under Social Assistance (SA), the limit of actual housing costs are EUR 1017.96 (84.83*12) and that are smaller than assumed housing costs – 20% of the AW (EUR 2097.38 – data of 2015). The costs above 1017.96 are ignored when the housing benefit is calculated.

5.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

It is possible to receive the housing benefit together with other social assistance benefits.

The kinds of income excluded from calculation of housing benefit - see Section 4.1

The assistance claimant must complete the subsistence declaration where household income and housing expenditures are indicated. Benefit claimants must declare their income every 3 to 6 months. However, a large number of municipalities are granted housing allowance once a year.

The assistance ability of single breadwinners is not taken into account. When estimating the assistance amount only net income of household is taken into account. The income from which the income tax and state social insurance contributions are paid is declared only after payment of the income tax and social insurance contributions.

The following kinds of income are declared in the assistance claimant's subsistence declaration:

- 1) income from paid employment;
- 2) state social insurance benefits;
- 3) pensions (including supplementary payment to pensions) and State social benefits, stipends, means of subsistence, , income from national support programs (in cash) - the last three months;
- 4) income from economic activity, royalties and fees, rent (lease) and sales of real property, rent and confiscation of movables - the last 12 months;
- 5) financial support of a spouse or a parent of child living separately - the last 12 months;
- 6) other income .

5.2.3 Costs eligible for housing benefits

5.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

Benefits are not liable to a tax.

5.4 Treatment of particular groups

5.4.1 Young persons

There are no uniform conditions. In some of municipalities where the housing benefit calculation takes into account the level of GMI and for children a higher GMI level is prescribed it affects families with children in housing benefit.

5.4.2 Older workers

None.

5.4.3 Others if applicable, including Disabled

There are no uniform conditions. In some of municipalities where the housing allowance calculation takes into account the level of GMI and for disability and old-age pensioners, as well as social security benefit receivers a higher GMI level is prescribed, it affects these household's in housing allowance.

6. Family benefits

Overview of family benefits (for greater detail refer to Chapters 6 and 8):

Special State support for single parent families (special lone parent benefit) is not provided, as social security benefits are granted to individuals, and not according to family structure. Support for single parent families is provided taking account the individual needs.

Thus the Administration of the Maintenance Guarantee Fund (which is under the responsibility of the Ministry of Justice) disburses child support (minimum maintenance amount) to children in case if one of the parents does not fulfil his/her obligations towards the child and does not ensure the minimum amount of child support. In case of loss of one or both breadwinners (parents) the state social security benefit is granted to a child. For needy families social assistance is provided, based on the evaluation of household's income and property.

6.1 Conditions for receipt

Family state benefit shall be granted to a person (parents or care-giver) that is raising a child, which is at least one year old and not older than 15; or, if older than 15, attends general or professional educational school and is not married. In such a case the mentioned benefit shall be granted for a period while a child attends the corresponding educational establishment, but only until the date when the mentioned person reaches 19 years of age or marries. If a child under the custody reaches 18 years of age, the benefit shall be granted to the child himself/herself due to reaching a majority (18 years). The benefit shall not be granted for a child that, in accordance with the number of places financed by state or municipality, is admitted to professional educational programs and receives a scholarship.

Till 2nd May 2010 the family state benefit was provided for all children from the day of birth. In accordance with amendments adopted by the Saeima in 16th June 2009 to the Law on State Social Benefits”, for children born after 2nd May 2010 the benefit is allocated only after child reaches the age of one year.

Currently the system of family benefit regards persons as dependent children no longer than till the age of 19 years. In the case of lone parent (see section 9.1.) the payment of state social security benefit shall be carried on if after reaching the majority (18 years), a person attends general or professional educational establishments and is not older than 20 or studies at day department (full time education) of any higher educational establishment and is not older than 24.

6.2 Calculation of benefit amount

6.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

From the 1st January 2015 the amount of family state benefit is 11.38 EUR per month for the first child, twice as much for the second child (22.76 EUR), 3 times as much for the third and following children (34.14 EUR).

From the 1st July 2009 on a temporary basis in the period from 1 July 2009 to 31 December 2014 (in accordance with the law “On state benefits payment during period from the year 2009 till the year 2014” adopted in Saeima on the 16th June 2009 with amendments) the family state benefit was reduced to the amount of the flat sum of 11.38 EUR per month per each children, without regarding the differentiation of benefit’s amount in dependence from the number of children in a family (until July 2009 the benefit ranged from 11.38 EUR per month for the first child in family to 20.49 EUR for fourth and further children).

Within family benefits there are following supplementary benefits available for parents or care-giver (guardian):

- Supplement to family state benefit for disabled child. If family state benefit is granted for a handicapped child under 18, an additional payment at the amount of 106.72 EUR per month shall be granted additionally to the mentioned benefit. A person that raises a disabled child keeps the right to receive this supplement regardless the payment of a family state benefit until the child reaches 18.
- Child birth benefit. Child birth benefit is granted to one of the child’s parents or to a person who took a guardianship of a child until one year of age. Right to receive the child birth benefit is entitled of 8th day after the child has born or since day when guardianship is established. The amount of child birth benefit is 421.17 EUR for every born child (one-off payment). Before 4th

April 2010, parents received a one-off childbirth benefit of 421.17 EUR with additional payment at the amount of 142.29 EUR for the first child birth, 213.43 EUR for the second child birth and 284.57 EUR for the third child and the next children birth. Additional payments for the birth grant were abolished and for all children born after 4th April 2010 child birth benefit shall be paid at the amount of 421.17 EUR (without additional payment).

- Care of disabled child benefit, which is granted to a person who cares for a child for whom the State Medical Commission for Expert-Examinations of Health and Working Ability has specified invalidity and issued an opinion regarding the necessity for special care in relation to serious physical and functional disorders. The payment of care of disabled child benefits shall be terminated when the time period ends for which the invalidity and the necessity for special care have been specified, or when the child reaches the age of 18 years. The amount of the care of disabled child benefit is 213.43 EUR per month. The state also covers social insurance contribution payments on behalf of persons receiving disabled child care benefit amounting to 20% from 71.14 EUR.

Lump-sum benefit in case of three children birth

If 3 children are born, the lump-sum benefit is granted according to the order of the Cabinet of Ministers. The benefit is granted to family additionally to other benefits as a lump sum benefit at the amount of 8538 EUR. The income tax is withheld from the benefit at the amount of 23%. The situation is unusual – an amount of granted lump sum benefit is the same as an amount of paid benefit (the benefit granted by government is after tax payments). The state withholds the tax and collects that tax deductions. In that case this lump sum benefit can't be included in the list of taxable benefits.

6.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

7. Childcare for pre-school children

Information updated for year 2015 (in accordance with OECD guidelines)

Full-time childcare

In compliance with the Law on Education pre-school establishments carry out a pre-school education programme that is the first phase of education.

Pre-school establishments that are registered in the Register of Education Institutions of the Republic of Latvia and have been granted a licence for their pre-school education programmes implement pre-school education. As of 5 September 2015, 78873 children attended local governments and private pre-school institutions.

Children up to 7 years of age acquire pre-school education programme. Depending on the state of health and psychological preparedness of children and according to the parents' wishes and decision of the family doctor, the mastery of the pre-school education programme may be prolonged or shortened by one year.

The preparation of five-year and six-year old children for the acquisition of primary education is compulsory.

On September 1st, 2013 (continued in 2014, 2015, 2016) the Latvian government started a pilot project to provide financial support for parents who need child care support for their children aged 1.5 - 4 years who are not benefiting from public childcare (from the age of 5, municipalities have a legal obligation to provide primary education to children). The financing will be provided until the 31st of May 2016 in order to solve the problem of long waiting lists for public kindergarten registration in some municipalities and help parents to return to work at the same time providing safe conditions for the child.

The combined co-funding paid for by the state and by local government to the child should be enough to decrease parents' expenditure on private kindergartens or child-minding services. Central government support for full-time child care is up to EUR 142, with the condition that state and municipal support combined (most municipalities already provide some support addressing such situations) does not exceed a certain limit. For example it cannot exceed EUR 228 per child in Riga planning region and approximately EUR 185 in other regions and rural territories. The state spent EUR 10.38 million in 2015 and has allocated another EUR 2.3 million for 2016.

7.1 Out-of-pocket childcare fees paid by parents

The payments that are made by parents for the acquisition of pre-school education are the following:

- 1) In the general mixed-type pre-school establishments parents pay for catering of children but all other expenses (maintenance of buildings, administrative expenses, salaries of the administrative staff and teachers except the salaries of teachers involved in the preparation of 5 and 6 year old children for school) are covered by local government. The salaries of those teachers who prepare the five and six year old children for school are paid from the state budget.

The founder takes the decision on the costs of catering and these costs are different for each local government. Within its administrative territory the local government according to criteria it has accepted may fix the size of discount to parents and does so in practice.

- 2) The parents of the pupils of special education institutions need not make any payments since all expenditures are covered from the state target subsidy and local government budget.

- 3) In private education institutions parents cover all expenses related to stay at school and the mastery of the pre-school education programme.
- 4) Parents whose children attend other education institutions (general schools, interest centres for children and juveniles, etc.) cover the catering costs.

Parents have to pay fees to cover management expenses and children's meals. Meals are provided three times a day (breakfast, lunch and afternoon snacks) at a low cost, usually totalling EUR 2 to 4 per day. Some charges may be made for additional services, for instance, foreign language teaching for children. Municipalities may reduce the fees for meals for children from low-income families, and most of those in rural areas do. Since 2013, the central and local government have financed learning tools such as different training materials, books and workbooks. Parents pay only for items children use personally such as pencils, crayons and paper. The learning materials for 5- and 6 year-olds are financed from central and local government budgets, but those for 1.5 to 4-year-olds from the local government budget.

Part-time childcare

In local government's institutions parents have to pay only for catering. If child stay in institution only part of day, the payment remains the same. There are different payment rules in private institutions.

7.2 Child-care benefits for formal centre-based care

There are two kinds of child-care benefits in Latvia: earnings related Parental benefit for employed (socially insured) persons and flat-rated Childcare benefit for persons raising children aged between 1 to 2.

7.2.1 Conditions for receipt

Parental benefit in accordance with the Law "On Maternity and Sickness Insurance" is paid to persons who are on child care leave or continue to work during child care period (are not on child care leave) and who are raising children under 1 or 1.5 year of age, if these persons have been employed on the day the benefit is granted (is considered to be an employee or self-employed person in accordance with the Law on State Social Insurance). The benefit shall be granted to one of the parents or to the person who has taken guardianship, adoption or foster family's duties of a child.

From 1st October 2014 the person can choose length of parental benefit payment – up to 1 year of child age (in amount of 60% from social insurance contribution wage) or up to 1,5 year of child age (in amount of 43,75% from social insurance contribution wage). Person can receive parental benefit and work at the same time (in amount 30% from granted benefit). Simultaneously with parental benefit person can receive also child care benefit 171 EUR per month. 7.2.2 Calculation of benefit amount

7.2.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

From 1st October 2014 the amount of parental benefit depends on chosen length of parental benefit payment. With length of benefit payment up to 1 year of child's age the amount is 60% from social insurance contribution wage; with length of benefit payment up to 1.5 year of child's age the amount is 43.75% from social insurance contribution wage. The parental benefit for person who receives the parental benefit and works at the same time, is in the amount of 30% from the granted benefit.

In the period from 1st January to 1st July 2015 the average amount of parental benefit was 420.13 EUR per month.

The childcare benefit is granted in accordance with the Article 7 of the Law on State Social Benefits and the CM Regulations No. 1609 of 22nd December 2019 "Regulations regarding the Amount of the allowance for Child Care and supplement to the allowance for Child Care and Parent's Benefit for the birth of twins or more children born during one delivery, its review, granting and disbursement procedure of the allowance and the supplement".

The amount of childcare benefit:

- to persons who are raising children aged under 1.5: 171 EUR per month;
- to persons who are raising children aged between 1.5 to 2: 42.69 EUR per month.

The amount of the supplement is:

- to persons who are raising children aged under 1.5: 171 EUR per month for each forthcoming child;

The benefit calculation formula is unified for all benefit receivers (regardless of part time use).

10. Tax system

The tax system consists of state taxes, state fees, local government fees, directly applicable taxes and other obligatory payments set in European Union regulatory enactments, social insurance contributions

Social insurance contributions guarantee security to person in case of old-age, death, unemployment, disability, maternity, child care, sickness, accidents at work and occupational diseases. The basis of compulsory social insurance contributions for the employee is all income from paid work from which personal income tax is to be deducted, without deduction of the non-taxable minimum, tax exemptions and justified expenses for which the taxpayer is entitled to reduce the taxable income.

Salary, pension, income from economic activity (self-employment) are subject to Personal Income Tax.

In 2015 personal Income Tax rate is 23%, taxation period – calendar year. The tax shall be calculated and paid into the budget in two ways:

- 1) in advance – payer of the income withholds tax at the source of income and pays it into the budget (from salary, pension, authors fee (royalty), donations in cash and other objects, scholarships, etc.)

10.1.1.2 Standard tax credits

10.1.2 Income tax schedule (central government income tax)

10.1.3 State and local income taxes

10.2 Treatment of family income

Latvia has not household taxation or joint taxation for spouse; taxpayer pays personal income tax individually.

10.3 Social security contributions and payroll taxes

10.3.1 Contributions payable by employees and benefit recipients

In 2015 the rate of compulsory social insurance contribution if the employee is insured for all social insurance types is 34.09% of wage before taxation, where the employer pays 23.59% and the employee – 10.50% (of which, 15% finances the NDC pension and 5% is directed to the individual account). Social insurance contribution covers:

- state pensions insurance – 24.39%
- unemployment insurance – 2.10%
- occupational accident insurance – 0.53%
- disability insurance – 3.14%
- maternity and sickness insurance – 2.79%
- parental insurance – 1.14%.

Individuals are insured and social insurance contribution payments are made in respect of those risks that may actually affect them. Therefore, the rate of social insurance contribution for special categories of payers has been reduced, excluding certain types of insurance. In 2015 the maximum object of social payments is 48 600 EUR per year, but minimum amount for the self-employed persons and for persons who joined social insurance voluntary – 4320 EUR per year (360 EUR per month).

The personal income tax (23%) is calculated from the gross wage from which the employee's contribution part has been deducted. The non-taxable minimum, tax concessions and eligible expenses for which the taxpayer has the right to reduce the taxable income are applicable.

10.3.2 Contributions payable by employers⁴

An employee shall make social insurance contributions through his or her employer. The employer shall deduct the contributions to be made by the employee and pay them into a special budget account.

Employer calculates social insurance contributions of the employee by multiplying the work income by the rate of social insurance contributions of the employee. Employer's social insurance contributions employer calculates by multiplying the work income by the rate of social insurance contributions of the employer. Total calculated social insurance contributions acquired by summing up the social insurance contributions of the employee and the social insurance contributions of the employer.

For example, if an employee's gross wage is 320 EUR, the employer makes the following calculation: he multiplies the contribution base by the contribution rate set for the employer ($\text{EUR } 320 \times 23.59\% = \text{EUR } 75.49$). He also calculates the part of contributions to be made by the employee by multiplying the contribution base by the contribution rate set for the employee ($\text{EUR } 320 \times 10.50\% = \text{EUR } 33.60$). Total sum of contributions payable is calculated by adding together the employers and employee's part ($\text{EUR } 75.49 + \text{EUR } 33.60 = \text{EUR } 109.09$ per month).

10.3.3 Payroll taxes

In accordance with the law On Protection of Employees in Case of Employer's Insolvency employers who according to law can be announced as bankrupt shall pay entrepreneurship risk state duty into the Employee Claims Guarantee Fund to satisfy employees claims in the event of the insolvency of enterprise. The holder and manager of the resources of the Employee Claims Guarantee Fund shall be the State agency "Insolvency Administration". ANNEX

DEFINITION OF SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS AND PAYROLL TAXES.

The following text has been adapted from Annex A of the OECD Revenue Statistics.

Social security contributions to general government

Classified here are all compulsory payments that confer an entitlement to receive a (contingent) future social benefit. Such payments are usually earmarked to finance social benefits and are often paid to institutions of general government that provide such benefits. However, such earmarking is not part of the definition of social security contributions and is not required for a tax to be classified here. However, conferment of an entitlement is required for a tax to be classified under this heading. So, levies on income or payroll that are earmarked for social security funds but do not confer an entitlement to benefit are excluded from this heading and shown under personal income taxes or taxes on payroll and workforce. Taxes on other bases, such as goods and services, which are earmarked for social security benefits are not shown here [...] because they generally confer no entitlement to social security benefits.

Contributions for the following types of social security benefits would, inter alia, be included: unemployment insurance benefits and supplements, accident, injury and sickness benefits, old-age, disability and survivors' pensions, family allowances, reimbursements for medical and hospital expenses or provision of hospital or medical services. Contributions may be levied on both employees and employers.

Social security contributions paid to institutions outside general government

Contributions to social insurance schemes which are not institutions of general government and to other types of insurance schemes, provident funds, pension funds, friendly societies or other saving schemes [are included here if they are compulsory or quasicompulsory (e.g., by virtue of agreement with professional and union organisations)]. Provident funds are arrangements under which the contributions of each employee and of the corresponding employer on his/her behalf are kept in a separate account earning interest and withdrawable under specific circumstances. Pension funds are separately organised schemes negotiated between employees and employers and carry provisions for different contributions and benefits, sometimes more directly tied to salary levels and length of service than under social security schemes.

Payroll taxes

This heading covers taxes paid by employers or employees either as a proportion of payroll or as a fixed amount per person, and which do not confer entitlement to social benefits. Examples of taxes classified here are the United Kingdom national insurance surcharge (introduced in 1977), the Swedish payroll tax (1969-1979), and the Austrian Contribution to the Family Burden Equalisation Fund and Community Tax.
