2. Unemployment insurance

Statutory basis for unemployment insurance is “Employment and Insurance in the Case of Unemployment Act” (Zakon o zaposlovanju in zavarovanju za primer brezposelnosti) (Official gazette RS, no. 5/1991...67/2002).

2.1 Conditions for receipt

Payable for any registered unemployed person who is actively seeking full-time work.

Unemployment benefit conditions :

- involuntary unemployment (i.e. through no fault of their own or against his/her own will),
- fulfilment of a minimum period of insurance,
- registration at the Employment Service of Slovenia (regional unit or branch office),
- application for benefit within 30 days of the termination of employment,
- capable of work,
- available to Employment Service (3 hours per day),
- actively seeking employment.

2.1.1 Employment conditions

Unemployment Benefit qualifying period:

- at least 12 months of employment with the same or different employers during the previous 18 months (full time equivalent),
- at least 12 months of insurance during the previous 18 months for seasonal workers employed for a definite period of time after conversion of working hours into the full time equivalent.

2.1.2 Contribution conditions

Compulsory insurance for employees (apprentices included). Voluntary insurance for :

- self-employed,
- owners of enterprises that are not insured on any other basis,
- citizens, employed by a foreign employer in a foreign country, who, upon return, cannot exercise their rights in case of unemployment on any other basis,
- spouses of citizens of the Republic of Slovenia employed abroad, if the spouse was employed in the Republic of Slovenia before departure abroad.

2.2 Calculation of benefit amount

Earnings taken as reference are person’s average monthly earnings (no ceiling) received during the 12 months before the termination of employment, including compensation of salary (health insurance or old-age and invalidity insurance). If the person was not receiving any payment, then their basic wage (increased by any bonuses that they would have received) is taken as a reference.

2.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Unemployment benefits rates:

- first three months: 70% of the reference basis,
- following months: 60% of the reference basis.

Minimum: at least 100% of the Statutory Reference Amount (zajamčena plača) net of taxes and contributions. In 2005 this amount was SIT 52 699 per month. Maximum: 3 times minimum unemployment benefit.

2.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

Reasons for termination of the entitlement to benefits are defined by the law (11 reasons), mainly related to not being available for work, not searching work and unjustifiably declining employment, temporary work, measures of training and education or other measures for reemployment, working illegally (moonlighting).

In some other cases defined by the law the amount of benefit may be reduced.

2.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

Unemployment Benefits are subject to taxation.

2.4 Benefit duration

Unemployment benefit duration depends upon length of insurance:

- 3 months for insurance of 1 to 5 years,
- 6 months for insurance of 5 to 15 years,
- 9 months for insurance of 15 to 25 years,
- 12 months for insurance of 25 years or more,
- 18 months for insured persons over 50 years of age and insurance period of more than 25 years,
- 24 months for insured persons over 55 years of age with on insurance period of more than 25 years.

2.5 Treatment of particular groups

2.5.1 Young persons

None

2.5.2 Older workers

The duration of unemployment insurance and Unemployment Assistance (denarna pomoč za primer brezposelnosti) is prolonged for unemployed persons aged 50 or more.

Unemployment Extension of payment of pension fund contribution :

- citizen or foreigner with permanent residence and a work permit,
- less than 3 years to the fulfilment of conditions for retirement.

2.5.3 Others if applicable

An insured person, who seeks a full-time job but enters a contract on employment for less than 4 hours of daily working time, is entitled to receive unemployment benefit for the remaining time of entitlement to such benefit.

3. Unemployment assistance

Statutory basis for unemployment assistance is “Employment and Insurance in the Case of Unemployment Act” (Zakon o zaposlovanju in zavarovanju za primer brezposelnosti) (Official gazette RS, no. 5/1991...67/2002).

3.1 Conditions for receipt

Paid after rights to unemployment insurance have expired. Unemployment assistance is applicable for registered unemployed persons whose rights to receive unemployment insurance have expired and income per family member is lower than 80% of Statutory Reference Amount of SIT 52,699 (€ 221) (gross) per month. Unemployment assistance conditions :

- fulfilment of a minimum period of insurance,
- registration at the Employment Service of Slovenia (regional unit or branch office),
- capable of working, actively seeking employment but cannot find suitable work.

3.1.1 Employment conditions

Unemployment assistance qualifying period:

- at least 12 months of employment with the same or different employers during the previous 18 months (full time equivalent),
- at least 12 months of insurance during the previous 18 months for seasonal workers employed for a definite period of time after conversion of working hours into the full time equivalent.

3.1.2 Contribution conditions

3.2 Calculation of benefit amount

3.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Equal to 80% of Statutory Reference Amount.

3.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

3.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

Benefits are not subject to taxation

3.4 Benefit duration

May be granted for a maximum of 15 months (or 3 years if the conditions for Old-age Pension are fulfilled during this period).

3.5 Treatment of particular groups

3.5.1 Young persons

3.5.2 Older workers

3.5.3 Others if applicable

4. Social assistance

Financial social assistance is a residual social benefit which acts as a final safety-net. It is designed as a minimum needed to cover the costs of most needed issues: food, clothes, heating, hygiene & minor-basic health-care costs, etc.

4.1 Conditions for receipt

Social assistance is paid conditionally on passing a means test. The need for social assistance is estimated each time case by case.

To provide financial assistance to individuals and families who are temporarily unable to secure sufficient funds for basic subsistence according to statutory criteria. Social Work Centre (Center za socialno delo) may grant Financial Social Assistance (denarna socialna pomoč) to help alleviate temporary material hardship of those without sufficient subsistence means.

Beneficiaries are: all permanent residents, as well as those entitled on a basis of international agreements ratified by the Republic of Slovenia.

Financial Social Assistance (denarna socialna pomoč) is granted to family members and to single persons. As family member claimants are defined: spouse or cohabitant, claimant's children, stepchildren for the duration of his/her obligation to care for them, parents and stepparents, orphaned grandchildren, nephews and nieces of the claimant, if she/he has to support them.

4.2 Calculation of benefit amount

4.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

The level of Financial Social Assistance (denarna socialna pomoč) is linked to the Basic Minimum Income (minimalni dohodek) determined by and adjusted in accordance with the Social Protection Act (Zakon o socialnem varstvu, Official gazette 36/04) once a year. In 2005, the Basic Minimum Income (BMI) amounts to: SIT 46.981.

Families are entitled, if their total monthly income does not exceed the following thresholds:

- First adult and single person: 100% of the BMI = SIT 46.981
- Every next adult: 70% of the BMI = SIT 32.887
- Child up to 18 years of age: 30% of the BMI = SIT 14.094

The monthly amount of Financial Social Assistance (denarna socialna pomoč) is defined as the difference between corresponding thresholds and total income of family (family members), according to the above mentioned rules.

Rent amounts (table below) are set by law and refer to upper limits for the six household types.

	2005 (in SIT)
1 person	18213
2 persons	25641

3 persons	31393
4 persons	37144
5 persons	42896
6 persons	48647

4.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

"Income taken into account" includes inheritance, gifts, income from agricultural and entrepreneurial activities and all wages and earnings of an individual or his family members which are subject to income tax, as well as non-taxable personal earnings, with the few exceptions (scholarships, alimony, child benefits,...),

Financial Social Assistance (denarna socialna pomoč) will not be granted; if savings or property (with some exceptions) exceeds the level of 24 times the national minimum wage [the national minimum wage for December 2005 amounts to SIT 122.600 (€510)].

4.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

Financial social assistance is delivered as net income and is not taxable.

Financial social assistance is taken into account as income when child benefits are calculated.

4.4 Benefit duration

The duration of Financial Social Assistance (denarna socialna pomoč) may not exceed a period of 3 months when granted for the first time or 6 months, if circumstances remain unchanged. In special cases (persons above 60 years and other relevant circumstances) benefit may be granted for a maximum of 12 months. Permanent assistance is used for those whose social status is not likely to improve.

4.5 Treatment of particular group

Financial Social Assistance (denarna socialna pomoč) is given primarily to the family as a whole. No other conditions relating to age.

4.5.1 Young persons

Assistance is also given to single persons aged over 18 years, who are neither married nor cohabiting and have no children. If they have children, than they are treated as family.

4.5.2 Older workers

No special treatments.

4.5.3 Others if applicable

For a single-parent family the financial social assistance – the level of minimum income is increased by an additional 30% of the BMI.

There is also an SA increase which is rent-related. See section 5 for details.

5. Housing benefits

Housing benefits are under the competence of the Ministry for environment and spatial planning and are defined in the Housing Act (Stanovanjski zakon, Official gazette 69/2003 and 18/2004 ZVKSES) that was put in force on October 2003, while a new system of housing benefits was put in force on 1st January 2005. The act among others regulates formation of the non-profit rents and housing benefits. Proposal on changes and completion of the housing act is under discussion since 7.7.2005.

Analysis of paid subsidies:

Year	Paid subsidies (mio Sit)	Number of claimants	Average monthly subsidy in Sit (in Eur)
2004	1,210	6,900	14,614 (€61)
2005	930	5,400	14,352 (€60)

Source: Ministry for environment and spatial planning

5.1 Conditions for receipt

Admission census:

Size of the Household	Average household income per month (Sit)	Average household income per month (€)
1 member	85,000 - 90,000	354 – 375
2 members	140,000 – 150,000	583 – 625
3 members	170,000 – 180,000	708 – 750
4 members	195,000 – 210,000	813 - 875

5.2 Calculation of benefit amount

Housing benefits depends on the claimant's income and amounts in a range 1% to 80% of the rent for apartment (compulsory 20% minimum payment by claimant). Subsidy is calculated according to the size of apartment defined as appropriate for social apartments and it depends also on the number of the household members.

Beneficiary must pay 20% of the rent and if beneficiary's ability of rent payment is below 20% then beneficiary is entitled for HB in amount of 80% of the rent. If beneficiary's ability is more than 20% of the rent then beneficiary is entitled for HB in amount of difference between the ability and rent.

5.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

5.4 Treatment of particular groups

5.4.1 Young persons

5.4.2 Older workers

5.4.3 Others if applicable

Standards for the size of non-profit apartment and for housing benefit claimant :

1 person: 20-30m2
2 persons: 30-45 m2
3 persons: 45-55 m2
4 persons: 55-65 m2
5 persons: 65-75 m2
6 persons: 75-85 m2
for further member +6m2

In the year 2005 was the average housing subsidy 14.352 Sit or 60 Euro.

6. Family benefits

6.1 Conditions for receipt

The claimant (one of the parent or another person for a child) must have a dependent child aged under 18, or under 26 if is still in education or the child is over 18 and has no parents or does not live in a joint household with parents, if the Centre of social work decides so on the basis of the circumstances.

6.2 Calculation of benefit amount

The aim of child benefit is to provide parents or the child supplementary income for living, raising and education when the income per family members does not exceed the maximum limit of income class. For the purposes of family benefits, income is defined as earned income plus unemployment benefits, but excludes family benefits. All included amounts are gross income, not net (after tax) income.

6.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Child benefit amounts in 2005 to (in SIT per month):

Income per family member in % of the average monthly wages of all employees	Amount of child benefit for each child
	1 st child	2nd child	3rd child and subsequent child up to 15%	21.580	23.740	25.900
over 15% to 25%	18.460	20.400	22.340
over 25% to 30%	14.070	15.720	17.370
over 30% to 35%	11.090	12.660	14.250
over 35% to 45%	9.070	10.590	12.090
over 45% to 55%	5.750	7.190	8.630
over 55% to 75%	4.310	5.750	7.190
over 75% to 99%	3.750	5.190	6.630

If a pre-school child does not attend kindergarten in accordance with the regulations for kindergartens, the amount of the child benefit is increased by 20%.

In addition to child benefit there are following supplementary allowances available:

Child birth allowance – one-time assistance at childbirth (financial assistance – amount 57.190,00 SIT in 2005 - or a package for the newborn)

Parental allowance - financial assistance (365 days after the birth of a child) to parents when they are not entitled to parental compensation after the birth of the child. In the year 2005 parental allowance amount to SIT 40.030,00 per month.

Large family allowance is an annual benefit for families with three or more children. In 2005 large family allowance amount to SIT 80.070,00 and is paid as a lump sum payment.

Partial payment for lost income. Partial payment for lost income is a personal benefit to one of the parents who has terminated his or her employment or started to work short time in order to care and safeguard a child with severe disturbance in mental development or severe disability in movement. The monthly amount of partial payment for lost income is the minimum wage for which the person concerned pays social security contributions.

6.2.2 Income and earnings disregards

Child benefit is defined as percentage from the average monthly wage of all employees in the Republic of Slovenia for the calendar year before the application is filed and is tested once a year. The amount of the child benefit also depends on the number of children in the family receiving child benefit.

6.4.3 Others if applicable

Lone parents: The amount of child benefit is increased by 10%

Special Child Care Allowance for a Child in Need of Special Care: Additional allowance. The monthly amount of special care allowance is in 2005 SIT 20.590,00. For a child with severe disturbances in mental development and children with severe disability in movement, who need special care, the allowance is SIT 41.180,00.

7. Childcare for pre-school children

Pre-school education, offered by pre-school institutions, is not compulsory. It includes children between the ages of 1 and 6. 60.6% of all children of the proper age were included in kindergartens in the school year 2003/2004. The curriculum is divided in two cycles (from 1 to 3 and from 3 to 6). The new curriculum promotes different types of programme such as: day, half-day and short programmes. There is also possibility of childminders, pre-school education at home or occasional care of children in their homes. The Curriculum for Pre-school Institutions was approved by Council of Experts and it defines six areas of activities: movement, language, art, nature, society and mathematics. The goals set in individual fields of activities provide the framework for selection of contents and activities by teachers.

Basic education has been extended from eight years to nine. This has been done gradually. The implementation of the nine-year basic education began in the 1999/2000 school year. Children that reach the age of 6 in a particular calendar year enter the first class in that year. A tenth year of education has been planned for pupils who fail or who wish to improve their results in the external knowledge assessment.

7.1 Out-of-pocket childcare fees paid by parents

In the connection with Child benefit:

The right to child benefit shall not be granted to one of the parents for the child who in order to obtain education, schooling or training lives in an institution which provides fulltime care free of charge.

Ministry of Education and Sport and Local community are responsible for giving the answer about specifications about costs in mentioned institutions.

Ministry of Finance is responsible for giving the information about taxes.

7.2 Child-care benefits

7.2.1 Conditions for receipt

The right to child benefit shall be granted to one of the parents or another person for a child who live registered in the Republic of Slovenia when the income per family member does not exceed the maximum limit of income class pursuant to Parental Protection and Family Benefits Act.

The child shall be a person until the age of 18, or older if she or he attends school for as long she or he has the status of a pupil, apprentice or undergraduate student, but only until the age of 26 at the latest.

7.2.2 Calculation of benefit amount

7.2.2.1 Calculation of gross benefit

Gross income includes all the incomes which are subject to personal income tax, transfer income and all other income which is described in the 73. Article of the Parental Protection and Family Benefits Act.

The average monthly income per family member shall be calculated by dividing the family's joint income with the number of months to which income relates and the number of the family members pursuant to the Parental Protection and Family Benefits Act

Families shall be classified into individual classes on the grounds of the average monthly income per family member in the preceding calendar year. When the right to child benefit is applied for in January, February or March, the average monthly income per family member in the calendar year before last shall be taken into account.

7.2.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

Ministry of Finance is responsible for giving the information about taxes.

7.2.4 Treatment of particular groups

The amount of the child benefit shall be laid down on the basis of family placement in the income class and the number of the children. The child benefit for the child who lives in a single-parent family shall be increase by 10%.

8. Employment-conditional benefits

1. Employment rehabilitation.

Persons with disability are eligible for employment rehabilitation programme including services for persons with disability for counselling, motivating and empowering persons with disability for taking active part in their employment lives, making assessment on working abilities, knowledge, skills and professional interests, psychosocial rehabilitation and informing of options in labour market, follow-up of social and working environment, helping to find proper job, helping for developing professional goals and social skills, analysis of working environment, analysis of required technology in working environment, training for specific job.

Eligibility depends on:

- Whether there is influence of the effects of physical or mental disability or disease on an individual.
- Needs for services of employment rehabilitation as a part of whole rehabilitation.
- Level of employability by adapting working environment or using of modern technology.
- Assessment of social or working environment.

2. Allowance

Persons with disability who participate in programme of employment rehabilitation are eligible for temporary allowance to compensate loss of income for the time of participation. Allowance also includes travel and accommodation expenses of the participants.

Employment service of Slovenia has the authority to decide about the entitlement of the status or rights of persons with disability.

3. Subsidy of salary

Persons with disability are eligible for compensation of lower incomes due to their lack of productivity.

The subsidy is intended for employees with disability in protected and supported work places. 30-70% of salary is intended for those employed in protected work places, 5-30% of salary for those in supported employment and 5-30% of salary for those employed in companies for persons with disability. Subsidy is dependent on level of disability.

The entitlement for subsidy is decided upon Foundation for promoting employment of persons with disability.

8.3 Tax treatment of benefit and interaction with other benefits

N/A

8.4 Benefit duration

Benefit duration is dependent on duration of the participating in Programme of employment rehabilitation, whilst subsidy is not limited.

9. Lone-parent benefits

12 Policy developments

Among the tasks of the social partners, the valid social agreement (for the period 2003-2005) also defines especially the coordination of working and family life, and the same task is also set out by the draft social agreement for the period 2006-2009. The state will encourage flexible forms of employment and encourage employers to become family-friendly enterprises.

With the new legislation in the area of parental protection and family benefits (Parental Protection and Family Benefits Act), which was adopted in 2003, the conditions are gradually being established for the higher-quality coordination of professional and family obligations, and the encouragement of equal responsibility of both parents. Here we have in mind primarily leave to care for a child, which can be taken by both parents through their own agreement (265 days), the father's right to 77 days maternity leave if the mother is under 18, paternity leave lasting 90 days with benefit (paternity benefit lasting 15 days) and with contributions paid (for other days the state provides payment of social security contributions based on the minimum wage) and reduced working hours with the assurance of pay for actual work duties and payment of social security contributions. The state also provides partial compensation for families and children, such as the parental allowance when the parents are not eligible for parental benefit, as cash assistance intended for parents lasting as long as parental leave (365 days) and the large family allowance as an annual receipt for families that have three or more children under 18, or under 26 if they are in full time education with the status of pupil, apprentice or student.

12.1 Policy changes introduced during 2005

No special policy changes in the part of tax and social security regime for income from employment and unincorporated businesses were introduced in 2005.

Future policy changes announced in 2005

Unemployment assistance with the new Act of employment ceased to exist in the year 2006.

Policy changes in the part of tax and social security regime, which are under consideration, are planned for the year 2007.

In 2005 the Slovenian Government plans amendments and supplements to the Parental Protection and Family Benefits Act whereby it wishes to introduce certain additional privileges for employed parents (such as subsidies for employing parents where the employer gives a job to a mother or father who is caring for and raising at least one preschool child, where they use all their leave to care for their child, or re-employs an unemployed person caring for and raising at least one child who is not yet 7 years old, or employs part-time a person caring for and raising at least one child who is not yet 7 years old or is caring for a child with serious motor impairment or with moderate to serious mental disability who is not yet 18 years old), more favourable paternity leave, a higher threshold for calculating parental supplements, incentives for earlier maternity and family life, more favourable conditions for parental supplements, the introduction of a care and education supplement for preschool children not attending preschool or kindergarten and being cared for by one parent, a close relative or person or other institution, and increasing the large family supplement for fourth and subsequent children. Equally the Slovenian Government is planning measures within the National Housing Programme designed to provide favourable housing loans for young families and other forms of support. A new Family Code is also being drafted.

We also give special emphasis to the status of children and their interests. The National development programme for improving the status of children and youth in Slovenia for the period 2005-2015, which is currently in the drafting stage, covers the following headings: health and a healthy way of life among children, family policy, access to quality education for all children, changing social services in support and help for children and their families, the fight against poverty and social exclusion, social concern for children, protection of children from neglect, violence and abuse, preventing use and protection of children from drugs, quality leisure time, planning children-friendly towns, the influence and role of the mass media, information for and the participation of children, and other areas. The national programme will define the activities of the Slovenian Government in this area, which will accord with the Government's programme addressed by the end of 2005.

ANNEX

DEFINITION OF SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTIONS AND PAYROLL TAXES.

The following text has been adapted from Annex A of the OECD Revenue Statistics.

Social security contributions to general government

Classified here are all compulsory payments that confer an entitlement to receive a (contingent) future social benefit. Such payments are usually earmarked to finance social benefits and are often paid to institutions of general government that provide such benefits. However, such earmarking is not part of the definition of social security contributions and is not required for a tax to be classified here. However, conferment of an entitlement is required for a tax to be classified under this heading. So, levies on income or payroll that are earmarked for social security funds but do not confer an entitlement to benefit are excluded from this heading and shown under personal income taxes or taxes on payroll and workforce. Taxes on other bases, such as goods and services, which are earmarked for social security benefits are not shown here [...] because they generally confer no entitlement to social security benefits.

Contributions for the following types of social security benefits would, inter alia, be included: unemployment insurance benefits and supplements, accident, injury and sickness benefits, old-age, disability and survivors' pensions, family allowances, reimbursements for medical and hospital expenses or provision of hospital or medical services. Contributions may be levied on both employees and employers.

Social security contributions paid to institutions outside general government

Contributions to social insurance schemes which are not institutions of general government and to other types of insurance schemes, provident funds, pension funds, friendly societies or other saving schemes [are included here if they are compulsory or quasicompulsory (e.g., by virtue of agreement with professional and union organisations)]. Provident funds are arrangements under which the contributions of each employee and of the corresponding employer on his/her behalf are kept in a separate account earning interest and withdrawable under specific circumstances. Pension funds are separately organised schemes negotiated between employees and employers and carry provisions for different contributions and benefits, sometimes more directly tied to salary levels and length of service than under social security schemes.

Payroll taxes

This heading covers taxes paid by employers, employees [...] either as a proportion of payroll or as a fixed amount per person, and which do not confer entitlement to social benefits. Examples of taxes classified here are the United Kingdom national insurance surcharge (introduced in 1977), the Swedish payroll tax (1969-1979), and the Austrian Contribution to the Family Burden Equalisation Fund and Community Tax.
